Jeaneanne, Leif - you may want to hold off a moment on reviewing. I intended to check in with Mindy on the revised format, but set up the message with the four documents as they reached a stopping point and got ahead of myself in hitting send. Sorry about that!

Jeaneanne, Mindy, Leif – Attached are four draft documents for your review.

Decision Document – Outline and much of the text that we can anticipate at this point. This is to give a sense of what we anticipate the document will cover in documenting the decision at a high level.

Comment Summaries/Responses – These will ultimately be three of the ~12 major categories for the Response to Comments (RtC) document, but given that I expect consolidation once we get a chance to review summaries that came in late last night, it seemed a lot cleaner to just work with and send these as separate documents for now. The rest of the RtC document will simply frame the context (usual Florida assumption language) and describe where the comments came from (public hearings and submissions to the Docket).
